

For the prevention and cure of
BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended
HAHN'S ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS
THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Hamilton's Elixir.

A sovereign remedy for colds, obstinate coughs, asthma, sore throats, catarrhs, and approaching consumptions.—To parents who have children afflicted with the HOOPING COUGH, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorders to which children are liable. The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Hamilton's Grand Restorative.

Recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of Nervous Disorders Violent cramps in Consumptions the stomach and Lowness of spirits back Loss of appetite Indigestion Impurity of blood Melancholy Hysterical affection Gout in the stomach Inward weaknesses Pains in the limbs and debility Relaxations, etc.

Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard.

A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout, rheumatic gout, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pain in the face and neck, etc. etc.

Lee's Ointment for the Itch.

Warranted an infallible remedy at once application, may be used with perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

Hahn's true & genuine German Corn Plaster.

An infallible remedy for corns, speedily removing them root and branch, without giving any pain.

The Genuine Persian Lotion.

So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals, the basis of other lotions, and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflammatory redness, scurfs, tetter, ring-worms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c.

SEDUCTION.

I saw a tear from beauty's eye;
Down the cheek in silence stealing;
I heard a low and plaintive sigh;
The bosom's inward grief revealing.

I saw the mark of sad decay.

Each lovely feature undermining;
And genius' brightly vivifying;
No more in radiant lustre shining.

I saw that face so lately deck'd,
In nature's sweetest beauty smiling;
By care and pain and sorrow wreck'd;
And wan despair its charms defiling.

I turn'd me from the scene and cried, "ing,"
Sweet maid, I hear thy death note peal;
Nor strove the ready tear to hide,
It was the tear of real feeling.

"Great God!" I cried, "and must it be,
Shall this sweet flower be left to languish?
And will no bolt be cast by thee,
To blast the wretch who caus'd her anguish?"

Far from a parent's fostering arms,
By wily arts induc'd to wander,
Now fades her lately blooming charms,
From parents dear and friends asunder!

Great Heaven! if suffering virtue's call,
To thee uprise for vengeance ever—
O let thy direst curses fall
On the Scourer's head forever!

BENEVOLENCE.

Shenstone was one day walking through his romantic retreat in company with his Delia; (her real name was Wilholt;) they were going towards the bower which he had made sacred to the ashes of Thomson, the harmonious author of the Seasons.— "Would to heaven," said Shenstone, pointing to the trees, "that Delia could be happy in the midst of these rustic avenues!" He would have gone on but was interrupted. A person rushed out of a thicket, and presenting a pistol to his breast demanded his money—Shenstone was surprised, and Delia fainted. "Money," said he, "is not worth struggling for—You cannot be poorer than I am—Unhappy man," said he, throwing him his purse, "take it and fly as quick as possible." The man did so. He threw his pistol into the water and in a moment disappeared. Shenstone ordered the foot boy, who followed behind him, to pursue the robber at a distance, and observe whither he went. In two hours time the boy returned and informed his master that he had followed him to the Hales Owen, where he lived; that he went to the very house-door (and peeped through the key hole; that as soon as the man entered, he threw the purse on the floor, and addressing himself to his wife, "take, said he, the dear bought price of my honesty.") Then taking two of his children, one on each knee, he said to them, "I have ruined my soul to keep you from starving;" and immediately burst forth into a flood of tears. Shenstone inquired after the man's character, and found that he was a labourer, honest and industrious, but oppressed by want and a numerous family. He went to the house, where the man kneeled down on his feet and implored mercy. Shenstone carried him home, to assist at the building and other improvements, which made himself so poor: and when Shenstone died, this labourer went to his grave with tears of gratitude.

Immortal benevolence! the richest gem that adorns the human soul! without these kings are poor, and in thy possession, the beggar is immensely rich.

ALEXANDRIA:
TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 26, 1818.

We are authorised to say, that a new Light House on the Tower of West Kepolen in the Island of Walcheren, on the coast of Zealand, in the Netherlands, is lighted up every night since the 20th of March.

The National Intelligencer of yesterday says, "We understand the President of the United States has decided that Pensacola, and the other posts which have been taken by General Jackson, in the Floridas, shall be restored to the Spanish authority."

THE COMET.

The comet that has for a few weeks past made its appearance in our hemisphere, has been noticed some time back on other parts of our continent, but philosophical or other remarks on this brilliant stranger have been few. The one which made its appearance a few years since, was accompanied by earthquakes and tornadoes. Our present season has also been uncommon. For eight weeks past, scarcely rain sufficient to lay the dust in our streets, and even the dews of the night have been but little—yet is our city and country healthy.

[Boston Palladium.]

The number of deaths in Baltimore during the last week, amounted to the unusual number of seventy! Of these fourteen died suddenly by drinking cold water, and seventeen by the cholera morbus. Parents and those entrusted with the care of children, cannot too strictly exercise their authority in denying to them an improper use of fruit at this season. [American.]

The following official notice was received per the Elbe, arrived at New-York:

"Hamburg, April 26, 1818.

"All ships bound to the Baltic must have a certificate of health, either from the Russian or Danish consul at the port where they load, or they will be obliged to perform quarantine at the sound.

EDWARD WYER, U. S. Consul."

The Detroit Gazette has fallen into a singular error in announcing the death, "in Washington city," of major John Anderson, of the topographical department of the army. The editor will be happy to learn that the major is not dead, but only married.

[Nat. Intelligencer.]

We mention as a novelty, that the corporation of New-York, have given notice that all the Quakers of that city, who do not pay their military fines, in lieu of performing military duty, before the 15th of July, for the last six years, will be liable to the manner in which the frigate run me down, endeavoring, if possible, to lay the blame on me; but the case was proved to be so clearly against them, that all the evidence they can bring, even of the crew of the frigate, is to their disadvantage. The agent of the American consul told me that the government must undoubtedly pay for the ship, which I value at 14,000 dollars. I this morning enclose a copy of my log-book and claim for the value of the ship to the Consul General in Paris."

Baltimore, July 25.

of him some assistance, which he refused, but told me he would give me five minutes to get all my things out of the ship, if I meant to leave her. I answered, that the ship was sinking, that having received the damage from him I would abandon the ship to him, and he might do with her what he pleased. He then gave orders to burn her, sent his boat to her for that purpose, but before the fire made any progress, she sunk, and his boat had much difficulty to get away before she went down.

I have found, since I have been on board this frigate, that they saw the ship at least fifteen minutes before she struck me, which was about the time I saw the Nereide, and the officer on watch at that time was a midshipman, and he would take no advice; the petty officers told him if he did not starboard his helm he would run that ship down; but he told them he had the command, and if they did not hold their tongues he would knock them down with the speaking trumpet. The Nereide this day arrived in Brest roads, and is quarantined for 25 days, so that I cannot get on shore until the expiration of that time. I shall then take with me the affidavits of most of the petty officers on the watch, and when I get on shore, shall take the advice of the consul or agent, and American or English merchants, if any there.

I have received the most uncouth treatment since I have been on board this frigate, that I ever experienced in my life. When I told the extension of my protest, I will immediately enclose a copy to you, and shall return home as soon as possible. I remain, &c.

LATEST FROM LIVERPOOL.

The ship Belvidera, capt. Hobson, from Liverpool, arrived this morning. She left on the 10th of June, and has a full cargo of British goods to many of the merchants of our city. Messrs William Gilmore and Eliash Tyson, Jr. came passengers, and the latter gentleman has kindly favored the editor of the Patriot with papers, letters, and a minute shipping list up to the 10th ult.

from which every item of moment has been selected. In regard to the state of the market, the following is of the latest date, and most authentic:

Liverpool, June 10.

Since we wrote you on the 1st inst. we have no alteration to notice in the price of any articles except flour and wheat, which have most unexpectedly advanced, sweet flour to 46 a 49 per bbl and foreign wheat to 11 a 13s per 70lb. How to account for this satisfactorily, when the average is falling, we cannot: the last return was 85s 2d. Our fine weather continues uninterrupted—something like the months of May and June with you—and the harvest most promisingly abundant. The want of wind and water might account for a rise in flour, but it would, from the same cause, tend to depress wheat. Yours respectfully,

PROROGATION OF PARLIAMENT POSTPONED.

This morning at 11 o'clock, the Lord Chancellor went down to the House of Lords, when it was signified that the Prince Regent would not close the session of parliament, as was intended. Their Lordships then adjourned during pleasure, and the Lord Chancellor went immediately to Carlton House, where a Cabinet Council was sitting when this paper was going to Pres. This postponement is attributed to what occurred last night in the House of Commons, respecting the ex post facto clause in the Alien Bill, introduced in the House of Lords, for the purpose of unnaturalizing the foreigners who have made themselves British subjects, by becoming proprietors of a certain amount of Stock in the Bank of Scotland. The House of Commons last night, in consequence of their privileges being affected by the amendment of the Lords, which had a pecuniary operation (altogether overlooked, as it should seem, by its proposer and supporters) rejected the clause. It is indeed very singular that this objection escape the observation of the Ministers of the legal advisers of the Crown. They are all in a most ridiculous situation. The clause must now be withdrawn, or the bill must be altered, and again go through all its stages in both Houses.

This morning it was reported in the City, on the authority of letters from Paris, that another loan had been negotiated for twenty-four millions of reales, with the houses of Baring and Hope. The sum is raised as a security to pay the allied armies on their being withdrawn from the French frontiers. The information had the effect of depressing the British funds. Consols opened at 79, and went to 80; but on the receipt of the above intelligence, they fell to 79 5 8, and at twelve o'clock appeared to be drooping.

The Paris papers of Wednesday received to day, contain no domestic news worthy of notice. The constitutional charter of Bavaria has been communicated to the people of that kingdom by the king. Impressed with the high obligations of his rank, he declares that it has always been his desire to signalise his government by institutions which should assure the well-being of his subjects. That in order to give stability to these views, he began so far back as 1809 to draw up a constitution for his country, which he now imparts as the result of long consultations with his council of state, and the offspring of his unfeigned will. Liberty of conscience and opinions, and the impartial administration of justice, are described as its elements. The old and new provinces of the kingdom of Bavaria are hereafter to compose one monarchical state, of which the king is supreme head. Under him, an assembly of the states-general are to represent the kingdom, divided into two chambers. The crown is declared to be hereditary in the male line, according to the order of primogeniture, and extended to the collateral branches of the royal house. Contemplating the possibility of the crown's passing to another house through failure to the present line, it is provided that in the event of such distant prince refusing to reside in the capital of the state, then the king may shall devolve on the second branch of the new royal house, and the succession remain with such second prince; and upon the crown so devolving to a foreign married princess, she becomes queen, and must have a resident viceroy in Bavaria. The princes and princesses are declared to be of age when 18 years old. Regencies are provided in cases of incapacity, or minority in the crown with the consent of the states-general. Where no collateral male branch exists in the royal house, the queen dowager is invested with the functions of regent, and the education of the royal minors is confided to her.

The late fine weather has enabled the sailors to sow their Lent grain, which the wetness of the weather prevented their getting in at the usual time. The appearance of the country is extremely fine, and we have the cheering prospect of abundant crops. The wheat fields and pasture lands present a luxuriant aspect—our orchards are in a most promising state, and there is likely to be a large quantity of all other fruits, except plums. [Exeter Gazette.]

It is stated on the authority of some of the passengers lately arrived from India, that a sailor belonging to the Vansittart, Chinaman, who had formerly been on board the Northumberland, when the latter vessel conveyed Buonaparte to St. Helena, had mentioned to some of his shipmates, when the Vansittart was off of Ischia on her late homeward voyage, that he had been seeing some of his acquaintances who were in the service of Buonaparte; that he got on shore during the night, and proceeded to the residence of Napoleon, and had been well received and entertained. He said he had done so for two successive nights. Immediately on this being reported to the officers of the ship, he was seized, searched, and sent to the Governor's where he was strictly investigated as to the means he had used, whether he had seen Buonaparte, or if he had been entrusted with any letters or packages. Nothing whatever had transpired; and it was believed the whole originated in the mad frolic of a British Tar. It threw, however, the whole island into great agitation—the practicability of a person proceeding to the residence of Buonaparte, and returning during the night being deemed impossible.

Sir George Collier is appointed Commodore on the African Station, in the room of Sir James Yeo, and to the command of the Tartar, a new 50 gun ship at Chatham.

A petition has been addressed to the Russian Emperor, supplicating him to adopt two regulations relative to the Jews; 1st, to subject them to military service; and 2dly, to prohibit them from selling brandy!

June 1.

The success of the late George Cooke, Incledon and Phillips, in America, has induced several others of the Corps Dramatique to follow their example, among which number is Wallack, of Drury lane theatre.

June 2.

This morning the market has been unusually brisk. Consols opened at 79 5 8, and went to 79 3 4—they afterwards declined a little. The rise is attributed to the late favorable declarations of the Minister, and the flourishing state of the revenue for this quarter. The commissioners were served generally by the Jobbers in Reduced, and gave 78 1 4. Consols shut to-morrow, and open the 24th of July. Five per cents, shut on Friday next, and open on the 22d July.

On the 5th ult., the Senate of Savoy condemned to hard labor, for two years, Jean Francois Daniel Balmasin, convicted of blasphemy, and to stand in the pillory at Annoy with a label on his breast, inscribed— "A blasphemer."

Great preparations are making in Norway for the Coronation of his Majesty King Charles John, which is to take place in that Kingdom during the summer. It is more than three hundred years since any King was crowned in that country. The last was Christian II, who was also king of Sweden. That monarch was crowned at Oslo, now Christiana, in the month of August 1514; but was afterwards deposed and died a prisoner in Denmark.

A letter from Manche, dated the 16th ult., says, "In this spring the countries on the banks of the Neckar have been more beautiful than we have ever seen them, the oldest inhabitants do not recollect ever to have beheld such a luxuriance of vegetation—the corn was already in ear a fortnight ago, and the vine gives every hope of a rich crop."

AMERICAN FRENCHMAN.

The Dublin Evening Post of this day has the following curious paragraph:

"We have heard, and had some reason to believe the statement true, that Joseph Buonaparte sent to France not less than 16,000 invitations, individually, to Frenchmen to join him in America.

The Dutch government, in order to secure tranquility in their East India colonies, have resolved on despatching an additional force thither, and are constructing vessels for that purpose.

Extract of a letter from the Cape of Good Hope, dated March 12.

"The John Palmer, we have the pleasure to inform you, arrived in our Roads on the 7th inst. all well. A desperate and avaricious mutiny of ten of her lowest men out of the fifteen, had nearly proved destructive of both ship and cargo, at sea, and of the lives of the captain, officers and passengers, and such of the remaining crew who stood faithful to their duty, and nothing but the extraordinary, firm, manly, and spirited conduct of her worthy commander, captain Godfrey Saunders, seconded by his excellent officers, the well-ordered portion of her people, and to the passengers, saved the whole property from piracy and plunder, and their lives from murder.

They were overpowered, after a severe struggle, secured, and brought in iron to confinement. We have further, for the safety of the ship and cargo, and the lives on board, even in harbor, applied to the proper authority of the colony for that protection necessarily required—and nine of the ten have here accordingly been imprisoned, to abide the consequences of their unjustifiable conduct—on which as a public cause, we shall shortly have the honor of addressing you. Meanwhile, we cannot at this hurried moment, even refrain from the expression of our humble opinion, that Capt. Saunders, his officers, and the remaining faithful part of his crew, the gentlemen of Lloyd or others, the underwriters, are entirely indebted, at the risk of their own lives, for the preservation from destruction and loss, of the John Palmer and her valuable cargo—and of Brestas, May 18.

Letters which are entitled to credit state, that the company of Madame Krudener, at the head of whom is the Sieur Kellner, of Brunswick, Private Secretary to Madame Krudener, having been driven from Prussia, were obliged to sojourn in a little frontier town where their dilemma was aggravated by an absolute want of money. However, M. de Paulucci, Governor of Riga, took upon himself the responsibility of advancing a considerable sum; and Madame Krudener then left Russia with her followers.

BRITISH EMIGRATION.

We have had to touch more than once on this painful topic, and we are again impelled to revert to it. Whatever may be the real cause, it is too true that the mania has taken deep hold of the population of this port and the neighboring ports around, large portions of which have resolved and are resolving to become inhabitants of the American land. During the past and present week in particular, many have embarked; among others, Mr. Hornbrook, a woollen-manufacturer, from the neighborhood of Tavistock, who is said to have taken the whole of his establishment, consisting of sixteen men and apprentices, and four women, for the avowed purpose of carrying on his future concern at Pittsburgh, in the Birmingham of America. We could mention other names, which the public would hear with some surprise. A silversmith at Plymouth is employed almost from morning to night, in furnishing the emigrants with gold and silver in exchange for bank paper; and were we to state the amount thus exchanged, and which thenceforth may be considered as totally lost, as well as the possessors, to the mother country, it would be quite evidence enough, if any be wanting, of the spirit of emigration.

(Plymouth paper.)

On Tuesday morning the attention of the inhabitants of Penrith was attracted by the appearance of a large wagon, stupendously laden with household furniture, &c., and with women and children; by the side of which walked a number of men—the whole comprising several families, who were proceeding from Alston to Liverpool, there to take shipping for America. The sight of nearly eighty of our fellow countrymen, compelled by the privations attendant on a remorseless system of profusion and taxation, to bid adieu forever to the land of our fathers, could not fail to awaken in the breasts of the spectators sympathetic emotions. On this eve of a General Election, such an occurrence ought to powerfully influence the reflecting electors, to return to Parliament men on whom the place dependance for a sincere desire to retrieve the affairs of this once happy country.

AMERICAN FRENCHMAN.

The Dublin Evening Post of Tuesday has the following curious paragraph:—"We have heard, and had some reasons to believe the statement true, that Joseph Bonaparte sent to France not less than 16,000 invitations, individually, to Frenchmen to join him in America."

The Dutch government, in order to secure tranquility in their East India colonies, have resolved on despatching an additional force thither, and are constructing vessels for that purpose.

Extract of a letter from the Cape of Good Hope, dated March 12.

The John Palmer, we have the pleasure to inform you, arrived in our Roads on the 7th inst. all well. A desperate and atrocious mutiny of ten of her foremost men out of the fifteen, had nearly proved destructive of both ship and cargo, at sea, and of the lives of the captain, officers and passengers, and such of the remaining crew who stood faithful to their duty, and nothing but the extraordinary, firm, manly, and spirited conduct of her worthy commander, captain Godfrey Saunders, seconded by his excellent officers, the well ordered portion of his uncle and of his crew, saved the ship, and their lives from destruction.

We have further, for the safety of the ship and cargo, and the lives on board, even in harbor, applied to the proper authority of the colony for that protection necessarily required—and nine of the ten here accordingly been imprisoned, to abide the consequences of their unjustifyable conduct—on which as a public cause, we shall shortly have the honor of addressing you. Meanwhile, we cannot at this hurried moment, even refrain from the expression of our humble opinion, that to Capt. Saunders, his officers, and the remaining faithful part of his crew, the underwriters, are entirely indebted, at the risk of their own lives, for the preservation from destruction and loss, of the John Palmer and her valuable cargo—and of our hope that such will not fail being marked by the approbation of those gentlemen, always celebrated for liberality."

Dr. Thomson's System of Chemistry.

IN FIVE VOLUMES OCTAVO.

THE preceding edition of Dr. Thomson's Chemistry, had acquired so much reputation both in England and upon the continent of Europe, that a new edition, comprising the new facts with which the science had been enriched, and the new views of the subject which extended knowledge had suggested as indispensable, was eagerly looked for by the scientific world. A new edition has accordingly appeared, wherein the former edition of five volumes has been condensed into four.

All the new discoveries, and all the new theories of Chemical Phenomena, have been considered and embraced in the present improved edition: so that it is indispensable to the chemical student, as presenting the only condensed view of the changes and alterations in chemical doctrine, which the discoveries of the last ten years have suggested. No apology therefore can be necessary for reprinting such a book in this country; for the press does not furnish a substitute for it. But, there is so much abstruse calculation—so much fact of dubious authority—and so much dubious validity—that notes and illustrations are absolutely necessary, not merely to render the book more useful, but more intelligible.

Under these impressions, I thought fit to write notes in illustration (and sometimes in contradiction) of the work itself; rather than to make any abridgement of it. Those who wish to know the modern views of chemical science, must peruse it; and to very many who will be anxious to study it, elucidation will be necessary.

I have endeavoured to supply these, to the best of my ability; regardless whether my own opinions are in dissonance or coincidence with those of my author; leaving to the reader to decide between us.

The work will be published, with notes and illustrations, in four volumes 8vo.

THOMAS COOPER, M. D.
